Brett, I am writing AGAIN to point out the issue on Erickson is TRAFFIC. The street has many families with children, a park, apartments and condos. Mixed use residential to the max.

So what is the city doing about the speeders besides the van sometimes parked near the park? Speed bumps would be very helpful. A better use of human's time.

Delete the plants in front of the side street allotments, facing the park on the east side, so turning traffic can see what is barreling down on them.

People are speeding. More of them, delivering young people to the Academy is potential for more speeding. The City needs to address the speeding. This paper shuffling is by law, but pointless.
